THE CHILDREN OF THE CRUCIBLE

By Theodore Roosevelt

We Americans are the children of the crucible. It has been our boast that out of the crucible, the melting pot of life in this free land, all the men and women of all the nations who come hither emerge as Americans and as nothing else; Americans who proudly challenge as a right, not as a favor, that they "belong" just exactly as much as any other Americans and that they stand on a full and complete equality with them. Americans therefore, who must, even more strongly, insist that they have renounced completely and without reserve, all allegiance to the lands from which they or their forefathers came, and that it is a binding duty on every citizen of this country in every important crisis, to act solidly with all his fellow Americans, having regard only to the honor and interest of America and treating every other nation purely on its conduct in that crisis, without reference to his ancestral predilections or antipathies. If he does not so act, he is false to the teachings and the lives of Washington and Lincoln, he is not entitled to any part or lot in our country, and he should be sent out of it. It he does not act purely as an American, he shows that in his case the crucible has failed to do its work. The crucible must melt all who are in it, it must turn them out in one American mould; and it must be the mould shaped a hundred and forty years ago by the men who under Washington founded this free nation, separate from all others. Even at that time, true Americans were of many different race strains; Paul Revere and Charles Carroll, Marion and Herkimer, Sullivan, Schuyler and Muhlenberg, stood on an equality of service and achieved respect with Light-horse Harry Lee and Israel Putnam. But the majority of the leaders and of their followers were of English blood. They did not, because of this, hesitate to resist and antagonize Great Britain when Great Britain wronged this nation; they stood for liberty and for the eternal rule of right and justice and they stood as Americans and as nothing else.

All Americans of other race origin must act towards the countries from which their ancestors severally sprang as Washington and his associates in their day acted. Otherwise they are traitors to America. This applies especially today to all Americans of German blood who directly or indirectly in any manner support Germany as against the United States and the Allies of the United States; it applies no less specifically to all American citizens of Irish blood who are led into following the same course not by their love of Germany but by their hatred of England. One motive is as inexcusable as the other; and in each case the action is treasonable to the United States.

POLITICAL

While the Democrats are making the most noise in the District Attorneyship campaign the Republicans are not much behind in the campaign for Sheriff. Charges and counter charges are being made by some of the candidates and the poor voter is up in the air about selecting his man. There is plenty of good material to select from and regardless of the man who wins the nomination he can be assured that he will have the undivided support of every other candidate at the general election in November. The scrap between the Republican candidates will be short lived. They are personal and not factional. The same cannot be said of the Democratic fracas. The fight there is factional, has been brewing and fomenting for years and only death will remove the causes and so embittered are the participants that it would not be at all surprising if the second generation took it upon themselves to carry on the fight for leadership of the Democratic party in Clearfield county. We would like to know what a real Democrat is. There is almost as much of a difference on this question as there was a few years ago when Congress was trying to find a definition for whiskey. The Democratic party has always been dominated by its leaders rather than its principles and in their ambitions to follow the leader many a good Democrat has been cast on the shoals of political ruin.

DUMDUMS

Off with your hat as the flag goes by.
Uncover the youngster's head.
Teach him to hold it holy and high
For the sake of it's sacred dead.

Government employees cannot go on strike. Why not put a few of those I. W. W.s to work for the government. Dig another canal with 'em.

The aeroplane flights at the County Fair will be the big attraction that will bring thousands to the Fair. All will want to see the wonderful invention of man which will have so great a part in the winning of the war.

See the Soldier

He is a MAN, and That Covers the Ground.

A Good Description

Copyright 1917 Star Company.

Our friend Mr. Hayes, in the war department, interested in everything that reflects honor upon the soldier and makes the people understand the country's defender sends us the interesting and brief manuscript that we publish here:

By James L. Tindale

See the soldier! There he goes swinging ahead of us. Not much to look at, say you; face and hands tanned to the shade of his brown khaki, hat string hanging behind head and a care-free insolent kind of jaunt as he lumbers his way through the street crowds.

But I see something in the fellow that makes me want to take off my hat to him.

In the first place, he has passed examination by Uncle Sam. This is something in his favor to begin with; for our Uncle is no easy man to please these days. The rejects are numerous.

A man must be a good animal sound in limb, in heart, lungs, hearing, eyesight and general make-up. The degenerate, or one with principles very far awry, is sure to meet with some tell-tale failure in these examinations, and the government acceptance of a man is a pretty good certificate of character. But it is not for this that I like the soldier ahead of us.

He is a well-set-up sort of chap and seems to have no trouble to look the world in the face. He has had training. This is shown in his rhythmic swing as he walks. Also he can stand up straight. When he stops he is able to stand still like a rock, no lounging, no fumbling with hands, and no fidgeting from one foot to another. He has poise. He has himself under control. But it is not that that makes me want to take off my hat to this soldier lad. It is a bigger thing—almost the biggest thing there is.

See that soldier? He stands for his country, for you and me. He knows discipline. He stands ready at quick notice to come, to stay, to go—to the end of the earth, if his country calls. All the same to him. Is it to man the trenches, or to go on the firing line? Ready. He goes where and when he is needed.

"His not to reason why."

He is a soldier. "Doing his bit" has become a classic. Danger means nothing to him; it's all in the day's work. He is the world's true optimist: "Some of the others may not come back but I'll be sure to come back." See the soldier? Perhaps he too, has a mother, wife or sweetheart, "even as you and I." What matters! He's a soldier.

"Deesa War Biga Hell" Says Pete The Poet

Peter Ladde, the local Gabrielle D'Annunzio, who polishes chins at the Y. M. C. A. barber shop as a side line when not writing poetry, is a close observer of the present world war, and gave a few of his friends his observations in verse at a little party he staged last evening. Peter styles his effort "Deesa War a Biga Hell" and is as follows:—

Wat aas deesa dat I hear?
War, war evrawhere,
'Neath da water, high een da air,
On da lan', here an' there.
So moocha war I see
End of da world may-be,
I so scare I no can tell,
For Deesa War Biga Hell.

Bulgaria, Turkey, for Heven da sake
Who een dees fight across da sea?
England, France an' Germany,
Italy, Austria, Russia, too,
Japan an' Belgium say you,
Bulgaria, Turkey, for Heven da sake
How many dat make?
Too moocha for me to tell,
For Deesa War Biga Hell.

Ev'rathing go, opra so high,
Prices touches da sky;
Meat so scarce dey tell
No can buy now, only to smell.
Flour! Oh! so dear!
I theenk weeth greata fear
Som' day notheeng for to sell—
For Deesa War Biga Hell.

Dees Kaiser bada man,
Killa whoever he can.
Shoot da torpeda across da sea,
Sink da good ship maybe.
Leetla children no can da save
From da deepa watery grave.
Ev'rabody me tell!
Deesa War Biga Hell.

'Merica now jump een da fight.
She knock Germany out da sight.
I betta da Kaiser man ees sick;
He sees da fensh of hees trick
To submarine da whole world;
Even leetla boys an' girls.
But Unkle Sam nuka heem yell,
Deesa War Biga Hell.

'Merica weell ston deesa hell,
By knocken da Germany pell-mell,
Alla submarines weell stop!
Da airships be dropped.
Stars an' Stripes so biga an' fine,
Win de War evra time.
Leesen to da Kaiser man yell,
Deesa War Too Biga Hell.

Navy League Now Part of The Red Cross

Differences Between The Two Organizations Are Settled

Washington, Sept. 10.—The formation of Naval Auxiliaries of the American Red Cross, to be identified with Red Cross chapters throughout the country, is announced today by H. P. Davison, Chairman of the Red Cross War Council. The action of the War Council in establishing this new division of activities is taken in response to an invitation from Secretary of the Navy Daniels.

Mrs. E. T. Stotesbury, of Philadelphia, has been named as Chairman of the Naval Auxiliary of the Red Cross, and an Advisory Committee of women is to be named by Secretary Daniels this week.

Secretary Daniels, in a letter to Chairman Davison, declares that the cooperation of the Red Cross with the Navy is especially desired, owing to President Wilson's wish that all American war relief agencies be centralized under the Red Cross.

Corn Pain Stopped Quick

Corns Lift Right Off With "Gets-It"

Blessed relief from corn pains is as simple as A B C with "Gets-It."

When you've been limping around for days trying to get away from a heart-drilling corn or bumpy callus, and everything you've tried has only made it worse, and then you put some "Gets-It" on and the pain ceases right away, and the corn peels right off like a banana skin—"ain't it a grand and heavenly feeling?"

"Gets-It" has revolutionized the corn history of the world. Millions use it and it never fails. Ladies wear smaller shoes and have pain-free feet. We old fellows and young fellows forget our toes and feel frisky as colts. Everybody with a corn or callus needs "Gets-It." We will walk about and enjoy ourselves as we did without corns. Get a bottle today from your druggist, or sent on receipt of price by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Ill. 25c is all you need to pay.

Sold in Clearfield and recommended as the world's best corn remedy by Irwin Drug Co., Woodward & McPherson, Stewart Drug Co., Dooley's Drug Store and A. M. Thatcher.

YOUNG MARINE WRITES HOME

John J. Malloy, son of Mrs. James Malloy, residing near Munson, now in the U. S. navy and at present located in the navy yard at Philadelphia writes his home folks the following letter:

Navy Yard, Philadelphia, Pa. Sunday, Sept. 2, 1917.

Dear mother, sisters and brother:

Will answer your most kind and ever welcome letter which I received a few days ago. Was more than glad to hear from you, as I always am.

Well today is Sunday and there are just four of us on board the ship. All the rest are ashore.

A little cat is sitting on the table in the mess room while I am writing this letter to you. It is a German cat, all black, and came from a German ship. There are also three other little kittens; and all are black, so we have lots of fun with them.

There was a big parade here yesterday. Suppose you will see the account of it in the papers.

Well mother the summer will soon be gone. The evenings are getting much cooler, although they are lovely. The moon shines brightly. I often sit and look in the direction of my dear old home, as I know just where it stands. I also watch the evening star come up behind the hills. I will be back there some day. It will not be long I hope. I would love to have been with you all today. We have done nothing but sit around in case any of us would have to go out and meet some boat. We had a real nice dinner today. We always get good eats. Live just like a hotel, although I would enjoy some of mother's cooking if it were only bread and butter. I will get some when I come home, believe me.

Those were good pictures you sent me. You can see the old school house on them too, plainly, and it brings back old memories that are gone by. I will send you some of my pictures next week that I had taken in my bathing costume. I hope that they will be good.

Tell Woolen Whiskers to have my dog broken in for hunting season, as I expect to be there to use him.

Well I have written you a big letter, so will close for this time.

Hoping to hear from you all soon and know that you are all well and happy, as this leaves me the same.

Best love to one and all.

Your loving son and brother,

JOHN J. MALLOY.

RAID TAGEBLATT, ARREST TWO, AND SEIZE RECORDS

Manager and Editor are Taken at the Offices

Armed with a blanket warrant for the arrest of six officials of the newspaper on the charge of violation of the espionage act of June 15, 1907, representatives of the department of justice, the United States Marshal and the Postoffice department raided the offices of the Philadelphia Tageblatt Publishing association, 107 North Sixth street, at 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The raiders confiscated all books, files, manuscripts and other properties, which required an auto-truck of the postoffice department to carry away.

Herman Lemke, business manager of the Philadelphia Tageblatt, the daily newspaper issued from these offices, was the only official on the ground when the raid began. He was placed under arrest and was taken to the office of Deputy United States Marshal Kenney, while Federal officers hunted for the other five for whom the warrant was issued. Dr. Martin Darkow, the managing editor of the Tageblatt, was arrested later when he appeared at his office to begin his day's work. They were held in $10,000 bail each for a further hearing Thursday morning.

The officers of the publishing company, which issues the Tageblatt and the Sonntagblatt, are:

Peter Schaefer, President.
Paul Vogel, treasurer.
Herman Lemke, business manager.
Louis Werner, editor-in-chief.
Dr. Martin Darkow, managing editor.

Waldemar Alfredo, editorial writer.

EQUIPMENT ISSUED TO THE CAMP LEE ARMY

Pennsylvania Men Given First Marching Lessons

Petersburg, Va., Sept. 10.—Today witnessed the official birth of the Eightieth division of the new national army at Camp Lee, when full equipment was issued to the men and active training of the Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Virginia drafted men was begun. Here, there and everywhere the drafted men were marching, some who were taking their first lessons. Foot movements, squads right and left, were taught the new men, and from now on they will spend eight hours of each day training for the trenches. The 5 per cent of the drafted men have been temporarily assigned to a company in each unit, and every branch of the service is being taught the men.

What will later be the 305th Regiment of Engineers, commanded by Colonel G. R. Saulding, into which command the full draft quotas of Armstrong, Indiana, Cambria, Blair, Huntingdon, Somerset, Bedford, Fulton, Altoona city and Johnstown city will go, is now represented by one company, made up by 5 per cent of the quotas from each of the counties. Later this 5 per cent, will probably be divided among the companies in the regiment as noncommissioned officers to help train later increments of the drafted men.

The 16th infantry brigade commanded by Brigadier General Charles J. Farnsworth, composed of the 319th and 320th regiments commanded by Colonels F. I. Coshen and O. E. Hunt, respectively, is now represented by one full company of each regiment. The quotas from the counties of Allegheny, Fayette, Westmoreland and cities of Pittsburgh and McKeesport will form this infantry brigade. The 313th machine-gun battalion and division trains and 305th signal battalion, into which commands all other Pennsylvania quotas assigned to Camp Lee for training will go are now represented by one company in each branch of the service.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Mr. and Mrs. Esby U. Spencer announce the engagement of their daughter Lafe Florence Spencer to Arthur Leonard Redeen of Kenosha, Wisconsin. Mr. Redeen is employed by the Bijor Motor Lighting Co., of Hoboken N. J., as their representative at the plant of the Nash Motor Co., of Kenosha. Miss Spencer is very well known in Clearfield, but has spent the last four years in Kenosha, where she holds the position of cost accountant with the Cooper Underwear Co.

PULLS OUT PAIN IN NO TIME

Modern Remedy of Modern Times Comes as Welcome Relief to Sufferers

Never, since the first person to be afflicted with that awful torment, rheumatism, has there been a remedy that has proven such a relief as 20th Century Liniment.

It has been successful on cases where many other things have failed and is fast becoming the leading household remedy for the affliction in this vicinity.

Some of the cases that it has actually cured are almost beyond belief. Hundreds of voluntary complainers have been paid to this remarkable destroyer of pain.

Try a bottle. Get it at your druggists for 50c or $1 and if it does not give you relief after three or four times using, your druggist will refund your money without a question.

WOMEN'S CLUB

The Woman's club will hold their regular meeting for September at the club rooms, Thursday the thirteenth at 2 p. m.

It is earnestly requested that all members attend this meeting. Much of our business has been held up all summer so it is important that every one should attend in order that this business be quickly disposed of. The new program committee will give an interesting and vital report; delegates for the convention to be held in Erie, Pa., in October must be selected and other matters also detailed to report. Please attend. $11-2t

COOKED THE GARDEN SASS

The heavy frost this morning just about cooked beans, tomatoes, corn and other garden sass and as a result there is much sulphurous profanity along the highways and byways.

The thermometer dropped down to 32 last night and ice was frozen in many sections of the county. War has nothing on farming and gardening in these rugged old Allegheny hills.

NEWS OF THE MOVIES

"TILLIE WAKES UP"

Special at the Globe Tomorrow

A play of laughs, laughs and still more laughs. Miss Dressler has already appeared in two of the funniest comedies ever produced but this one is just about twice as funny as the others combined. The clever World light comedian, Johnny Hines, furnishes her the best support she has yet received. Cynics, grouches, and those habitually morbid will not enjoy the clean wholesome fun which prevades this piece, but for all others it will be an oasis in a barren desert.

SECOND FOUR YEARS AGO, SHOULD BE FIRST NOW

To Republican Voters:

I have always been proud of the fact and I feel that as I came so near securing the nomination for sheriff four years ago as you all will remember according to party customs. I am really entitled to the nomination for that office at the Republican primaries, Wednesday, Sept. 19th, 1917. I want all to know that I have been sincerely grateful to every man who voted for me four years ago, for his confidence and favor in doing so and considering that there is a great expense attached to a campaign and owing to the fact that this is my last chance, I will never forget those who voted for me four years ago, if they will each get another vote besides their own for me at the next primary election. Adhering to party customs in treatment of worthy candidates strengthens a party, while breaking up party customs and dealing unjustly with candidates with unbecomingly established claims, does not. The Democratic party in Clearfield county, I feel, are proud with my friends to exact every honorable influence in order that I may secure what party custom and justice would guarantee.

Yours in the cause,

School for Soldiers Lesson No. 26

This course of thirty daily lessons is offered to the men selected for service in the National Army as a practical help in getting started in the right way. It is informal in tone and does not attempt to give binding rules and direction. These are contained in the various manuals and regulations of the United States army to which this course is merely introductory.

LESSON NO. 26 SOME NATIONAL TRADITIONS

This course should include a backward glance over the military history of the United States. It is worth while for the soldier to recall why and how the men before us fought for American principles and rights. You are representing today the same ideals and fighting for many of the same things they fought for in 1776, 1798, 1812, 1846, 1861 and 1898.

In 1776 our forefathers refused any longer to submit to the demands of a tyrannical government and declared themselves independent. The farmers and shopkeepers and mechanics and fishermen who rushed to arms at the beginning of the revolution did not at first realize they were forming a new nation. But before long they saw clearly that in order to enjoy liberty they must shake off the rule of the autocratic government which had its seat in London.

Our First War

In their attitude they had the sympathy of a great many Englishmen who were broad enough to see that the American colonists were really fighting for the rights of all free peoples. In the British parliament Pitt and Burke and other great Englishmen openly defended the American patriots. "If I were an American as I am an Englishman," said one of the great parliamentary leaders, "while a foreign troop remained in my country I would never lay down my arms." It was not the English people who were seeking to suppress liberty in America, but a small body of court politicians—an autocratic government—which misrepresented the people.

The Americans of that day on their part did not hesitate to take up arms for their rights, even though they came into conflict with the seasoned troops of a great power—even though they had to meet invasion and partial conquest of their own country. Nor did they long hesitate to break completely away from the motherland which many of them still loved.

In 1798 we found ourselves in a state of war with the French government. This is not usually thought of as an American war, since there was no fighting except for a few encounters on the high seas. There was no declaration of war and it was all settled within a few months. Yet the fact is that a state of war actually existed. Here again we had no quarrel with the French people, whom we admired and loved for the help they had given us during the Revolution. We were really at war with a little group known as the Directory, who had seized the government of France and misrepresented the people.

In the War of 1812 with Great Britain, (the principal question at issue concerned the freedom of American ships and the rights of American sailors on the high seas. For the most part the American army was poorly trained and equipped and had little success. It redeemed itself, however at the battle of New Orleans where Andrew Jackson led the western militia to a well-earned victory. The British government tacitly recognized the soundness of the principle for which the Americans fought.

The Mexican War

America's next war was with Mexico. The Mexicans had not been very careful of American rights either in Mexico itself or along the frontier, and the disagreement as to the ownership of a certain large strip of land along the Rio Grande easily led to hostilities. In the war that followed the armies of Scott and Taylor won victory after victory against overwhelming odds and eventually Mexico sued for peace. One result of the war was to establish more definitely the right of an American citizen abroad to a reasonable amount of protection and support.

Less than a generation later came the great Civil war. Never was the fighting spirit of the citizen-soldier better shown than in this unhappy and bitter struggle, when Americans were pitted against Americans. Both sides were fighting for principles of government, the North for the principle of union, the South for the principle of the right of states to secede from that Union. Today, with the war a half century behind them, we are probably few Americans who can recall the North or South, who do not feel that their hearts that the principle of union was upheld and that we are able to meet our new foe as a united nation.

We entered the Spanish war to put an end to misrule in Cuba. Above our quarrel was not with the Spanish people, but with the government

NEW YORK CENTRAL LINES

In Peace and War

In time of peace a nation develops as its railroads expand. The very life of commerce and trade—agriculture, mines, factories—is dependent upon transportation facilities. In time of war the railroads must not only take care of this normal traffic but must in addition be ready for every emergency in the transporting of troops, guns and supplies.

The New York Central Lines

with their 12,000 miles of railway and nearly 200,000 employees thus have an important place in the life of our nation in the time of peace—doubly so in time of war. It is the aim and purpose of the New York Central Lines to serve the government and the people faithfully and well.

which was creating conditions in Cuba that we could not endure with self-respect. Admiral Cervera and his men, who had shown themselves brave in the defense of their country, were received in this country as prisoners rather than as prisoners. Their treatment was striking evidence of our real feeling toward the Spanish people. We fought for the principle that on the American continents government tyranny and cruelty must not be permitted to continue; and that principle was established.

Fighting for Principles
The Americans are peculiarly a peace-loving people. They have no taste for warfare and no lust for territory or power. Yet within less than one hundred and fifty years we have entered six important wars, the last and perhaps the greatest of which is the one just beginning against the German government. Why have all these wars been necessary?

The answer is to be found in the simple fact that there are certain American rights and principles that must be upheld if the United States is to remain a free and self-respecting nation. These rights have never been attacked—and probably never will be

DEATH OF LITTLE JAMES LITTEN

The Death Angel entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Litten, of West Decatur, on Monday, Sept. 3, and took from them their darling little son, James Edward Litten, aged 20 months and 29 days. Funeral services were held in the Blue Ball U. B. church by Rev. G. B. Clay.

County Farm Agent A. T. Kearney,
have charge of the different sections of the Children's Department of the Fair. One star prize lists of this Department were sent to teachers in all the schools of the county last spring and it is believed much work that was done at that time would be suitable for display at the Fair.

H. E. Owens has been appointed
Superintendent of the Grange Contest
in place of F. B. Lee, resigned.

Historical relics and reminders of old times will be in charge of John P.
McCurdy, representative of The Prog-

Announcing Beginning Tomorrow Our First Display of Fall Suits for Women of Discrimination

Women who like to dress well—and her name is legion—will be vitally interested in the first showing at A. W. Leonardson Co.'s tomorrow, of suits for Fall wear.

Every style sanctioned by the Centers of Fashion is included in this collection, and you must surely arrange to visit the store tomorrow if only to inspect the new arrivals in Suit-land.

Dane Fashion has decreed that suits for Fall shall include both the tailored as well as the more dressy styles.

In the former group, coats will be chiefly long,
extending to about the knee.

The straight line silhouette is preserved in the tailored models.

Skirts are plain, inasmuch as they are largely covered by the coats.

In some the plait is introduced, and a few show
low side drapery.

Whatever your taste, you may be assured that it is met in this introductory display.

Prices range from $17.50 to $67.50.

gate. Season tickets at $1 and auto tags at $2 good for auto and driver to pass in and out at will on sale soon at Co. Supt.'s Office, eaststone Bldg.

Special Appeal
The management of the Fair is doing everything possible to make the Fair a good one and now it is not asking too much to hope that everyonin the county that can do so and especially every citizen of Clearfield and vicinity will do all they can to make the 1917 Fair a grand success. Will merchants do all they can to give publicity to the Fair by keeping window cards conspicuously displayed and banners on delivery wagons from now until Fair time. Banners and other advertising matter can be gotten at County Supt.'s office. The stores of Clearfield will be asked to close on Wednesday and Thursday afternoons of the Fair. Let us all work together for a successful Fair this year, and next year we will be in line for our share of the State Appropriation which only becomes available the third year of exhibition.

EDITORIAL

THE CHILDREN OF THE CRUCIBLE

By Theodore Roosevelt

We Americans are the children of the crucible. It has been our boast that out of the crucible, the melting pot of life in this free land, all the men and women of all the nations who come hither emerge as Americans and as nothing else; Americans who proudly challenge as a right, not as a favor, that they "belong" just exactly as much as any other Americans and that they stand on a full and complete equality with them. Americans therefore, who must, even more strongly, insist that they have renounced completely and without reserve, all allegiance to the lands from which they or their forefathers came, and that it is a binding duty on every citizen of this country in every important crisis, to act solidly with all his fellow Americans, having regard only to the honor and interest of America and treating every other nation purely on its conduct in that crisis, without reference to his ancestral predilections or antipathies. If he does not so act, he is false to the teachings and the lives of Washington and Lincoln, he is not entitled to any part or lot in our country, and he should be sent out of it. It he does not act purely as an American, he shows that in his case the crucible has failed to do its work. The crucible must melt all who are in it, it must turn them out in one American mould; and it must be the mould shaped a hundred and forty years ago by the men who under Washington founded this free nation, separate from all others. Even at that time, true Americans were of many different race strains; Paul Revere and Charles Carroll, Marion and Herkimer, Sullivan, Schuyler and Muhlenberg, stood on an equality of service and achieved respect with Light-horse Harry Lee and Israel Putnam. But the majority of the leaders and of their followers were of English blood. They did not, because of this, hesitate to resist and antagonize Great Britain when Great Britain wronged this nation; they stood for liberty and for the eternal rule of right and justice and they stood as Americans and as nothing else.

All Americans of other race origin must act towards the countries from which their ancestors severally sprang as Washington and his associates in their day acted. Otherwise they are traitors to America. This applies especially today to all Americans of German blood who directly or indirectly in any manner support Germany as against the United States and the Allies of the United States; it applies no less specifically to all American citizens of Irish blood who are led into following the same course not by their love of Germany but by their hatred of England. One motive is as inexcusable as the other; and in each case the action is treasonable to the United States.

POLITICAL

While the Democrats are making the most noise in the District Attorneyship campaign the Republicans are not much behind in the campaign for Sheriff. Charges and counter charges are being made by some of the candidates and the poor voter is up in the air about selecting his man. There is plenty of good material to select from and regardless of the man who wins the nomination he can be assured that he will have the undivided support of every other candidate at the general election in November. The scrap between the Republican candidates will be short lived. They are personal and not factional. The same cannot be said of the Democratic fracas. The fight there is factional, has been brewing and fomenting for years and only death will remove the causes and so embittered are the participants that it would not be at all surprising if the second generation took it upon themselves to carry on the fight for leadership of the Democratic party in Clearfield county. We would like to know what a real Democrat is. There is almost as much of a difference on this question as there was a few years ago when Congress was trying to find a definition for whiskey. The Democratic party has always been dominated by its leaders rather than its principles and in their ambitions to follow the leader many a good Democrat has been cast on the shoals of political ruin.

DUMDUMS

Off with your hat as the flag goes by.
Uncover the youngster's head.
Teach him to hold it holy and high
For the sake of it's sacred dead.

Government employees cannot go on strike. Why not put a few of those I. W. W.s to work for the government. Dig another canal with 'em.

The aeroplane flights at the County Fair will be the big attraction that will bring thousands to the Fair. All will want to see the wonderful invention of man which will have so great a part in the winning of the war.

See the Soldier
He is a MAN, and That Covers the Ground.
A Good Description
Copyright 1917 Star Company.

Our friend Mr. Hayes, in the war department, interested in everything that reflects honor upon the soldier and makes the people understand the country's defender sends us the interesting and brief manuscript that we publish here:

By James L. Tindale

See the soldier! There he goes swinging ahead of us. Not much to look at, say you; face and hands tanned to the shade of his brown khaki, hat string hanging behind head and a care-free insolent kind of jaunt as he lumbers his way through the street crowds.

But I see something in the fellow that makes me want to take off my hat to him.

In the first place, he has passed examination by Uncle Sam. This is something in his favor to begin with; for our Uncle is no easy man to please these days. The rejects are numerous.

A man must be a good animal sound in limb, in heart, lungs, hearing, eyesight and general make-up. The degenerate, or one with principles very far awry, is sure to meet with some tell-tale failure in these examinations, and the government acceptance of a man is a pretty good certificate of character. But it is not for this that I like the soldier ahead of us.

He is a well-set-up sort of chap and seems to have no trouble to look the world in the face. He has had training. This is shown in his rhythmic swing as he walks. Also he can stand up straight. When he stops he is able to stand still like a rock, no lounging, no fumbling with hands, and no fidgeting from one foot to another. He has poise. He has himself under control. But it is not that that makes me want to take off my hat to this soldier lad. It is a bigger thing—almost the biggest thing there is.

See that soldier? He stands for his country, for you and me. He knows discipline. He stands ready at quick notice to come, to stay, to go—to the end of the earth, if his country calls. All the same to him. Is it to man the trenches, or to go on the firing line? Ready. He goes where and when he is needed.

"His not to reason why."

He is a soldier. "Doing his bit" has become a classic. Danger means nothing to him; it's all in the day's work. He is the world's true optimist: "Some of the others may not come back but I'll be sure to come back." See the soldier? Perhaps he too, has a mother, wife or sweetheart, "even as you and I." What matters! He's a soldier.

"Deesa War Biga Hell" Says Pete The Poet

Peter Ladde, the local Gabrielle D'Annunzio, who polishes chins at the Y. M. C. A. barber shop as a side line when not writing poetry, is a close observer of the present world war, and gave a few of his friends his observations in verse at a little party he staged last evening. Peter styles his effort "Deesa War a Biga Hell" and is as follows:—

Wat aas deesa dat I hear?
War, war evrawhere,
'Neath da water, high een da air,
On da lan', here an' there.
So moocha war I see
End of da world may-be,
I so scare I no can tell,
For Deesa War Biga Hell.

Bulgaria, Turkey, for Heven da sake
Who een dees fight across da sea?
England, France an' Germany.
Italy, Austria, Russia, too,
Japan an' Belgium say you.
Bulgaria, Turkey, for Heven da sake
How many dat make?
Too moocha for me to tell,
For Deesa War Biga Hell.

Ev'rathing go, opra so high,
Prices touches da sky;
Meat so scarce dey tell
No can buy now, only to smell.
Flour! Oh! so dear!
I theenk weeth greata fear
Som' day notheeng for to sell—
For Deesa War Biga Hell.

Dees Kaiser bada man,
Killa whoever he can.
Shoot da torpeda across da sea,
Sink da good ship maybe.
Leetla children no can da save
From da deepa watery grave.
Ev'rabody me tell!
Deesa War Biga Hell.

'Merica now jump een da fight.
She knock Germany out da sight.
I betta da Kaiser man ees sick;
He sees da fensh of hees trick
To submarine da whole world;
Even leetla boys an' girls.
But Unkle Sam nuka heem yell,
Deesa War Biga Hell.

'Merica weell ston deesa hell,
By knocken da Germany pell-mell,
Alla submarines weell stop!
Da airships be dropped.
Stars an' Stripes so biga an' fine,
Win de War evra time.
Leesen to da Kaiser man yell,
Deesa War Too Biga Hell.

Navy League Now Part of The Red Cross

Differences Between The Two Organizations Are Settled

Washington, Sept. 10.—The formation of Naval Auxiliaries of the American Red Cross, to be identified with Red Cross chapters throughout the country, is announced today by H. P. Davison, Chairman of the Red Cross War Council. The action of the War Council in establishing this new division of activities is taken in response to an invitation from Secretary of the Navy Daniels.

Mrs. E. T. Stotesbury, of Philadelphia, has been named as Chairman of the Naval Auxiliary of the Red Cross, and an Advisory Committee of women is to be named by Secretary Daniels this week.

Secretary Daniels, in a letter to Chairman Davison, declares that the cooperation of the Red Cross with the Navy is especially desired, owing to President Wilson's wish that all American war relief agencies be centralized under the Red Cross.

Corn Pain Stopped Quick

Corns Lift Right Off With "Gets-It"

Blessed relief from corn pains is as simple as A B C with "Gets-It."

When you've been limping around for days trying to get away from a heart-drilling corn or bumpy callus, and everything you've tried has only

made it worse, and then you put some "Gets-It" on and the pain ceases right away, and the corn peels right off like a banana skin—"ain't it a grand and heavenly feeling?"

"Gets-It" has revolutionized the corn history of the world. Millions use it and it never fails. Ladies wear smaller shoes and have pain-free feet. We old fellows and young fellows forget our toes and feel frisky as colts. Everybody with a corn or callus needs "Gets-It." We will walk about and enjoy ourselves as we did without corns. Get a bottle today from your druggist, or sent on receipt of price by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Ill. 25c is all you need to pay.

Sold in Clearfield and recommended as the world's best corn remedy by Irwin Drug Co., Woodward & McPherson, Stewart Drug Co., Dooley's Drug Store and A. M. Thatcher.

YOUNG MARINE WRITES HOME
John J. Malloy, son of Mrs. James Malloy, residing near Munson, now in the U. S. navy and at present located in the navy yard at Philadelphia writes his home folks the following letter:

Dear mother, sisters and brother:
Will answer your most kind and ever welcome letter which I received a few days ago. Was more than glad to hear from you, as I always am.

Well today is Sunday and there are just four of us on board the ship. All the rest are ashore.

A little cat is sitting on the table in the mess room while I am writing this letter to you. It is a German cat, all black, and came from a German ship. There are also three other little kittens; and all are black, so we have lots of fun with them.

There was a big parade here yesterday. Suppose you will see the account of it in the papers.

Well mother the summer will soon be gone. The evenings are getting much cooler, although they are lovely. The moon shines brightly. I often sit and look in the direction of my dear old home, as I know just where it stands. I also watch the evening star come up behind the hills. I will be back there some day. It will not be long I hope. I would love to have been with you all today. We have done nothing but sit around in case any of us would have to go out and meet some boat. We had a real nice dinner today. We always get good eats. Live just like a hotel, although I would enjoy some of mother's cooking if it were only bread and butter. I will get some when I come home, believe me.

Those were good pictures you sent me. You can see the old school house on them too, plainly, and it brings back old memories that are gone by. I will send you some of my pictures next week that I had taken in my bathing costume. I hope that they will be good.

Tell Woolen Whiskers to have my dog broken in for hunting season, as I expect to be there to use him.

Well I have written you a big letter, so will close for this time.

Hoping to hear from you all soon, and know that you are all well and happy, as this leaves me the same. Best love to one and all.

Your loving son and brother,
JOHN J. MALLOY.

RAID TAGEBLATT, ARREST TWO, AND SEIZE RECORDS

Manager and Editor are Taken at the Offices

Armed with a blanket warrant for the arrest of six officials of the newspaper on the charge of violation of the espionage act of June 15, 1907, representatives of the department of justice, the United States Marshal and the Postoffice department raided the offices of the Philadelphia Tageblatt Publishing association, 107 North Sixth street, at 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The raiders confiscated all books, files, manuscripts and other properties, which required an auto-truck of the postoffice department to carry away.

Herman Lemke, business manager of the Philadelphia Tageblatt, the daily newspaper issued from these offices, was the only official on the ground when the raid began. He was placed under arrest and was taken to the office of Deputy United States Marshal Kenney, while Federal officers hunted for the other five for whom the warrant was issued. Dr. Martin Darkow, the managing editor of the Tageblatt, was arrested later when he appeared at his office to begin his day's work. They were held in $10,000 bail each for a further hearing Thursday morning.

The officers of the publishing company, which issues the Tageblatt and the Sonntagsblatt, are:

Peter Schaefer, President.

Paul Vogel, treasurer.

Herman Lemke, business manager.

Louis Werner, editor-in-chief.

Dr. Martin Darkow, managing editor.

Waldemar Alfredo, editorial writer.

Pennsylvania Men Given First Marching Lessons

Petersburg, Va., Sept. 10.—Today witnessed the official birth of the Eightieth division of the new national army at Camp Lee, when full equipment was issued to the men and active training of the Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Virginia drafted men was begun. Here, there and everywhere the drafted men were marching, some who were taking their first lessons. Foot movements, squads right and left, were taught the new men, and from now on they will spend eight hours of each day training for the trenches. The 5 per cent of the drafted men have been temporarily assigned to a company in each unit, and every branch of the service is being taught the men.

What will later be the 305th Regiment of Engineers, commanded by Colonel G. R. Saulding, into which command the full draft quotas of Armstrong, Indiana, Cambria, Blair, Huntingdon, Somerset, Bedford, Fulton, Altoona city and Johnstown city will go, is now represented by one company, made up by 5 per cent of the quotas from each of the counties. Later this 5 per cent, will probably be divided among the companies in the regiment as noncommissioned officers to help train later increments of the drafted men.

The 16th infantry brigade commanded by Brigadier General Charles J. Farnsworth, composed of the 319th and 320th regiments commanded by Colonels F. I. Coshen and O. E. Hunt, respectively, is now represented by one full company of each regiment. The quotas from the counties of Allegheny, Fayette, Westmoreland and cities of Pittsburgh and McKeesport will form this infantry brigade. The 313th machine-gun battalion and division trains and 305th signal battalion, into which commands all other Pennsylvania quotas assigned to Camp Lee for training will go are now represented by one company in each branch of the service.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Mr. and Mrs. Esby U. Spencer announce the engagement of their daughter Lafe Florence Spencer to Arthur Leonard Redeen of Kenosha, Wisconsin. Mr. Redeen is employed by the Bijor Motor Lighting Co., of Hoboken N. J., as their representative at the plant of the Nash Motor Co., of Kenosha. CURWENSVILLE

Two children of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Bloom are ill of typhoid fever. One was taken to the hospital Friday and the other one today.

Mrs. Jay Murphy called on Mrs. Elizabeth Murphy in Lumber City Monday.

Sam Smith, stationed at Bellefonte, was home Sunday to spend the day with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Doc Smith before leaving for Fort Hancock, Augusta, Ga.

A young son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Norris of Pike township was taken to the Clearfield hospital, suffering from typhoid fever.

George Dumbleton and sister Miss Annie, of Philipsburg, were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Ammerman on Irvin Hill.

Mrs. R. M. Wright spent Sunday with her parents Mr. and Mrs. John Daley near Grampian.

Harold Dickie, of Ridge avenue, age about 13, was taken to the Clearfield hospital Sunday suffering from typhoid fever.

John Starr, who has been occupying the McDonald residence on Ridge avenue, will move with his family to Williamsport.

Mr. and Mrs. Benj. Nichols and family who were visiting her father, A. H. Irvin, returned to their home in Elizabeth City, N. J., last Friday, accompanied by her father in his car. Walter Fullerton the trusty driver and Mr. Irvin returned Sunday evening, having had a most delightful trip.

Mrs. H. Phil Thompson is visiting friends in Bellefonte.

His many friends will be glad to read the following from Clarence H. Ammerman sent from Richmond, last Saturday:

Arrived here at 1 o'clock. We take dinner here in Richmond. Am feeling fine. Some trip. I met Lowell Hays in Harrisburg and we rode down together.

PULLS OUT PAIN IN NO TIME

Modern Remedy of Modern Times Comes as Welcome Relief to Sufferers

Never, since the first person to be afflicted with that awful torment, rheumatism, has there been a remedy that has proven such a relief as 20th Century Liniment.

It has been successful on cases where many other things have failed and is fast becoming the leading household remedy for the affliction in this vicinity.

Some of the cases that it has actually cured are almost beyond belief. Hundreds of voluntary complainers have been paid to this remarkable destroyer of pain.

Try a bottle. Get it at your druggists for 50c or $1 and if it does not give you relief after three or four times using, your druggist will refund your money without a question.

WOMEN'S CLUB

The Woman's club will hold their regular meeting for September at the club rooms, Thursday the thirteenth at 2 p. m.

It is earnestly requested that all members attend this meeting. Much of our business has been held up all summer so it is important that every one should attend in order that this business be quickly disposed of. The new program committee will give an interesting and vital report; delegates for the convention to be held in Erie, Pa., in October must be selected and other matters also detailed to report. COOKED THE GARDEN SASS

The heavy frost this morning just about cooked beans, tomatoes, corn and other garden sass and as a result there is much sulphurous profanity along the highways and byways.

The thermometer dropped down to 32 last night and ice was frozen in many sections of the county. War has nothing on farming and gardening in these rugged old Allegheny hills.

Miss Grace Connelly entertained a number of her friends at her home on Cherry street last evening.

"TILLIE WAKES UP"

Special at the Globe Tomorrow

A play of laughs, laughs and still more laughs. Miss Dressler has already appeared in two of the funniest comedies ever produced but this one is just about twice as funny as the others combined. The clever World light comedian, Johnny Hines, furnishes her the best support she has yet received. Cynics, grouches, and those habitually morbid will not enjoy the clean wholesome fun which prevades this piece, but for all others it will be an oasis in a barren desert.

SECOND FOUR YEARS AGO, SHOULD BE FIRST NOW

To Republican Voters:

I have always been proud of the fact and I feel that as I came so near securing the nomination for sheriff four years ago as you all will remember according to party customs. I am really entitled to the nomination for that office at the Republican primaries, Wednesday, Sept. 19th, 1917. I want all to know that I have been sincerely grateful to every man who voted for me four years ago, for his confidence and favor in doing so and considering that there is a great expense attached to a campaign and owing to the fact that this is my last chance, I will never forget those who voted for me four years ago, if they will each get an other vote besides their own for me at the next primary election. Adhering to party customs in treatment of worthy candidates strengthens a party, while breaking up party customs and dealing unjustly with candidates with unbecomingly established claims, does not. The Democratic party in Clearfield county, I feel, are proud with my friends to exact every honorable influence in order that I may secure what party custom and justice would guarantee.

Yours in the cause,

School for Soldiers Lesson No. 26

This course of thirty daily lessons is offered to the men selected for service in the National Army as a practical help in getting started in the right way. It is informal in tone and does not attempt to give binding rules and direction. These are contained in the various manuals and regulations of the United States army to which this course is merely introductory.

LESSON NO. 26

SOME NATIONAL TRADITIONS

This course should include a backward glance over the military history of the United States. It is worth while for the soldier to recall why and how the men before us fought for American principles and rights. You are representing today the same ideals and fighting for many of the same things they fought for in 1776, 1798, 1812, 1846, 1861 and 1898.

In 1776 our forefathers refused any longer to submit to the demands of a tyrannical government and declared themselves independent. The farmers and shopkeepers and mechanics and fishermen who rushed to arms at the beginning of the revolution did not at first realize they were forming a new nation. But before long they saw clearly that in order to enjoy liberty they must shake off the rule of the autocratic government which had its seat in London.

In their attitude they had the sympathy of a great many Englishmen who were broad enough to see that the American colonists were really fighting for the rights of all free peoples. In the British parliament Pitt and Burke and other great Englishmen openly defended the American patriots. "If I were an American as I am an Englishman," said one of the great parliamentary leaders, "while a foreign troop remained in my country I would never lay down my arms." It was not the English people who were seeking to suppress liberty in America, but a small body of court politicians—an autocratic government—which misrepresented the people.

The Americans of that day on their part did not hesitate to take up arms for their rights, even though they came into conflict with the seasoned troops of a great power—even though they had to meet invasion and partial conquest of their own country. Nor did they long hesitate to break completely away from the motherland which many of them still loved.

In 1798 we found ourselves in a state of war with the French government. This is not usually thought of as an American war, since there was no fighting except for a few encounters on the high seas. There was no declaration of war and it was all settled within a few months. Yet the fact is that a state of war actually existed. Here again we had no quarrel with the French people, whom we admired and loved for the help they had given us during the Revolution. We were really at war with a little group known as the Directory, who had seized the government of France and misrepresented the people.

In the War of 1812 with Great Britain, (the principal question at issue concerned the freedom of American ships and the rights of American sailors on the high seas. For the most part the American army was poorly trained and equipped and had little success. It redeemed itself, however at the battle of New Orleans where Andrew Jackson led the western militia to a well-earned victory. The British government tacitly recognized the soundness of the principle for which the Americans fought.

The Mexican War

America's next war was with Mexico. The Mexicans had not been very careful of American rights either in Mexico itself or along the frontier, and the disregard as to the ownership of a certain large strip of land along the Rio Grande easily led to hostilities. In the war that followed the armies of Scott and Taylor won victory after victory against overwhelming odds and eventually Mexico sued for peace. One result of the war was to establish more definitely the right of an American citizen abroad to a reasonable amount of protection and support.

Less than a generation later came the great Civil war. Never was the fighting spirit of the citizen-soldier better shown than in this unhappy and bitter struggle, when Americans were pitted against Americans. Both sides were fighting for principles of government, the North for the principle of union, the South for the principle of the right of states to secede from that Union. Today, with the war a half century behind them, we are probably few Americans who can recall the North or South, who do not feel that their hearts that the principle of union was upheld and that we are able to meet our new foe as a united nation.

We entered the Spanish war to put an end to misrule in Cuba. Above our quarrel was not with the Spanish people, but with the government

NEW YORK CENTRAL LINES

In Peace and War

In time of peace a nation develops as its railroads expand. The very life of commerce and trade—agriculture, mines, factories—is dependent upon transportation facilities. In time of war the railroads must not only take care of this normal traffic but must in addition be ready for every emergency in the transporting of troops, guns and supplies.

The New York Central Lines

with their 12,000 miles of railway and nearly 200,000 employees thus have an important place in the life of our nation in the time of peace—doubly so in time of war. It is the aim and purpose of the New York Central Lines to serve the government and the people faithfully and well.

which was creating conditions in Cuba that we could not endure with self-respect. Admiral Cervera and his men, who have shown themselves brave in the face of death, were received in this country as heroes rather than as prisoners. Their treatment was striking evidence of our real feeling toward the Spanish people. We fought for the principle that on the American continents government tyranny and cruelty must not be permitted to continue; and that principle was established.

Fighting for Principles
The Americans are peculiarly a peace-loving people. They have no taste for warfare and no lust for territory or power. Yet within less than one hundred and fifty years we have entered six important wars, the last and perhaps the greatest of which is the one just beginning against the German government. Why have all these wars been necessary?

The answer is to be found in the simple fact that there are certain American rights and principles that must be upheld if the United States is to remain a free and self-respecting nation. These rights have never been attacked—and probably never will be

Attractions For The Fair Are Announced

The Philadelphia Wool & Textile Association has agreed to donate a share of the money for the following special prizes to boys and girls only.
Ram, 1st $5. 2nd $3.
Ewe, 1st $5. 2nd $2.
Lamb, 1st $5. 2nd $2.
Sheep must be owned by boy or girl competing.

Grade horses and colts also registered cold the unaccompanied by mare will be classified. Any other mistakes or omissions in Premium List will be corrected so that every proper breed of livestock or article of value may receive recognition.

A special prize of $5 together with a National Certificate of Merit will be given by the National Emergency Good Garden Commission for the best canned vegetables grown in War gardens, that is gardens located in villages, towns and cities. It is especially requested by this Committee that our papers give publicity to this matter.

"Prizes will be awarded by the N.
E. G. C. through the officials of fairs who shall select the prize winners according to their own and the Commission's conditions, and entries shall be made with said local officials."

The Better Baby Contest will be held in the main Exhibition Building at 10:00 a. m. Thursday, instead of 4:00 p. m. Wednesday as scheduled in Premium List. A large number of babies have been entered for the contest but there will be plenty of room for others and it is hoped many more will be entered.

It is hoped that teachers will (on their request) excuse pupils interested in the School Room Work Display, the School Garden Work, or the Boys and Girls' Stock Judging Contest, the Pig, Calf and Poultry Club Work, the Boys' Corn and Potato Growing Contest and the Girls' Canning Contest, at least on Wednesday, September 19
Come in the morning.

County Superintendent C. A. Wes-gerber, Prof. Clair oss, Principal of Clearfield Junior High School, and JD5.

County Farm Agent A. T. Kearney,
have charge of the different sections of the Children's Department of the Fair. One star prize lists of this Department were sent to teachers in all
the schools of the county last spring
and it is believed much work that was done at that time would be suitable for display at the Fair.

H. E. Owens has been appointed
Superintendent of the Grange Contest
in place of F. B. Lee, resigned.
Historical relics and reminders of
old times will be in charge of John P.
McCurdy, representative of The Progress at the Fair.

Any merchant who has not yet arranged for exhibition space at the Fair should immediately get in touch with Mr. T. Roy Boyce and get a place in the Main Building with the other progressive business men of the town.

The Farmers' Horse Race, open to farmers and others having driving horses, but not track horses, could be well filled and furnish some fun and sport.

The Country Trot is open to track horses owned in the county.

Other races open to all track horses may be organized if enough horsemen ask for it.

ADMISSION 10c AND 25c

Announcing Beginning Tomorrow Our First Display of Fall Suits for Women of Discrimination

Women who like to dress well—and her name is legion—will be vitally interested in the first showing at A. W. Leonardson Co.'s tomorrow, of suits for Fall wear.

Every style sanctioned by the Centers of Fashion
is included in this collection, and you must surely arrange to visit the store tomorrow if only to inspect the new arrivals in Suit-land.

Dane Fashion has decreed that suits for Fall
shall include both the tailored as well as the more dressy styles.

In the former group, coats will be chiefly long,
extending to about the knee.

The straight line silhouette is preserved in the tailored models.

Skirts are plain, inasmuch as they are largely
covered by the coats.

In some the plait is introduced, and a few show
low side drapery.

Whatever your taste, you may be assured that it is met in this introductory display.

Prices range from $17.50 to $67.50.

A. W. LEONARDSON CO.

YOU will find in our store a hat that will harmonize with and add distinction
to your Fall suit.

Special Appeal
The management of the Fair is doing everything possible to make the Fair a good one and now it is not asking too much to hope that everyon-
in the county that can do so and especially every citizen of Clearfield and vicinity will do all they can to make the 1917 Fair a grand success. Will merchants do all they can to give publicity to the Fair by keeping window
cards conspicuously displayed and banners on delivery wagons from now until Fair time. Banners and other advertising matter can be gotten at County Supt.'s office. The stores of Clearfield and Thursday afternoons of the Fair. Let us all work together for a successful Fair this year, and next year we will be in line for our
share of the State Appropriation which only becomes available the third year of exhibition.
